I am pleased endorse the Torres Strait and Northern Peninsula Regional Plan 2009-2029 Community Booklet.

On behalf of the Integrated Service Delivery (ISD) project steering committee, I wish to thank the seven Regional Plan Working Groups for their work over the last two years, which has enabled the publishing of ISD Booklets for each community in the Torres Strait and for the Northern Peninsula Area. I also thank the many community members who provided feedback and verified the information to enable the publishing of the Booklet.

This Booklet represents the 2012 'baseline' for your community. This baseline is a vital component of the ISD initiative for the Torres Strait and Northern Peninsula Area and can be used by communities and government agencies working in the region to measure progress, improvement or change in the delivery of services and programs. This information will inform the decision-making and prioritisation processes of communities and government agencies. The sharing of information will contribute towards greater collaboration between agencies as they can see the bigger picture of who else is delivering services in the region.

I hope this Community Booklet will help explain the range of government services available in your community and the region, and show clearly who is responsible for those services. In fact, the Booklet serves as a directory of services. Your community can also use this booklet to monitor the progress of delivering the additional services identified for your community in the Torres Strait and Northern Peninsula Regional Plan 2009-2029.

I encourage community members to provide formal or informal reports to the Integrated Service Delivery Coordination Unit on changes or updates to the status of projects, programmes and services. Comments can be sent to isdcoordination@tsra.gov.au and will be referred to the appropriate area within the ISD project for action.

It is the goal of ISD that all stakeholders in the region work more efficiently and in a collaborative, constructive, open and transparent manner. This is a major step towards fostering and strengthening a spirit of genuine partnership and shared responsibility.

Let us all work together to achieve our vision of 'empowering our people, in our decision, in our culture for our future'.

John T. Kris
 Chairperson
 Torres Strait Regional Authority

INTRODUCTION

In 2007 the Council of Australian Governments (COAG) agreed on the need to close the gap in life outcomes and opportunities between Indigenous and non-Indigenous Australians.

The National Indigenous Reform Agreement (NIRA) lists a number of targets to end Indigenous disadvantage. To address the targets, the government has made a long-term commitment across seven key areas (known as Building Blocks).

The Building Blocks are:

1. Early Childhood
2. Schooling
3. Health
4. Economic Participation
5. Healthy Homes
6. Safe Communities
7. Governance and Leadership

TORRES STRAIT AND NORTHERN PENINSULA AREA

REGIONAL PLAN 2009-2029

In 2008, the Torres Strait Regional Authority (TSRA), the Torres Strait Island Regional Council (TSIRC), the Torres Shire Council (TSC), the Northern Peninsula Area Regional Council (NPARC), and Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander Services (ATSIS) from the Queensland Government Department of Communities, recognised there was a need to create a plan to guide the development of the region, and identified that integrated planning and service delivery would maximise opportunities and resources in the region.

In August and September 2008, teams with representatives from the TSRA, NPARC, TSC, TSIRC and ATSIS spoke to all communities and elected leaders in the region about their needs and aspirations. In 2009, the Torres Strait and Northern Peninsula Area Regional Plan 2009-2029 (the Regional Plan) was developed.

The Regional Plan:

1. outlines the communities' vision for the region;
2. specifies goals based on the seven COAG Building Blocks and three extra goals specific to the region;
3. outlines how to achieve these goals; and
4. calls for a regional partnership with all levels of government working together to build a strong future for the region.

The TSRA, TSC, TSIRC, NPARC and ATSIS realised that for the Regional Plan to be effective, all government agencies needed to meet and plan to work more closely together in the region.

An Integrated Approach

The TSRA, TSC, TSIRC, NPARC and ATSIS realised that for the Regional Plan to be effective, all government agencies needed to meet and plan to work more closely together in the region. This closer working relationship is embodied in the concept of Integrated Service Delivery.

Seven Regional Plan Working Groups were established to:

- identify all current services in the region;
- highlight gaps and duplications of services;
- prioritise community issues that need to be addressed; and
- identify short, medium and long-term goals.

A joint agency project management team was formed to:

- provide administrative support;
- bring all the working group information together for analysis;
- identify issues that cut across all working groups or Building Blocks; and
- develop a framework to support Integrated Service Delivery (ISD) and ensure that government agencies uphold their commitments.

After the information was analysed, all government agencies, as well as elected leaders, agreed to develop a document that would drive ISD. This document is called the Integrated Service Delivery Agreement (ISD Agreement). All actions that government agencies can commit to are listed in this document. The ISD Agreement commits government to complete projects in a set timeframe. These projects deliver against the objectives of the Regional Plan and address/recognise the needs of communities that were expressed in the associated 2008 consultations.

Aim of Integrated Service Delivery

- Address the needs of the communities in the region
- Make sure that all government agencies align projects with the Regional Plan
- Make sure that opportunities and resources are maximised to secure the future of the region
- Provide adequate, appropriate and coordinated service delivery to Torres Strait Island and Northern Peninsula Area communities
- Ensure government agencies talk to each other and work together more efficiently.

Why We Need Integrated Service Delivery

- Government is complex and difficult to understand, and there is too much red tape
- There are many different government agencies working in the region and sometimes there is duplication of services
- There has been a lot of change in the last few years, and a lot of consultation
- Communities feel disengaged
- Government funding must be used in the most effective way possible to deliver efficient outcomes for all communities.

The Purpose of the Community Booklet

- Provide feedback to communities, and clearly outline the issues your community talked about during the consultations in 2008 as well as what has been achieved or is in progress by 2012
- Outline what services government agencies are currently providing to your community
- Support the development and implementation of the ISD Agreement
- Provide a baseline or 'snap shot' of your community in 2012, against which progress and change can be measured in future years.

What You Will Find in This Booklet

This Community Booklet is arranged in seven chapters relating to the seven COAG Building Blocks. The three additional goals from the Regional Plan (Environmental Management; Art, Culture and Heritage; and Native Title) have been included within each of the chapters as they are key enabling activities that impact on one or more of the COAG Building Blocks.

At the beginning of each chapter is a section titled ‘What your community wanted in 2008’. The information listed in this section has come directly from the community consultations undertaken in 2008. What your community wanted has been colour coded Red, Orange and Green.

The pie charts (right) show progress made in delivering the services requested by the community in 2008, using the same colour coding as above. All of the services identified in 2008 were initially coded red. This compares with the second pie chart (2012) and shows what has been achieved in the initial ISD period.

The second section of each chapter is titled ‘What is available in your community and across the Region’. Here you can find a list of programs and services that are currently being delivered, including a description of these services. Many of these programs and services are offered on a region-wide basis and some are state-wide or nation-wide programs and services. In some cases programs are available to your community, but it is necessary that your community approach the relevant government agency to seek access, delivery or support. Others require that individuals submit applications (for example, to apply for scholarships).

Programs and services which contribute directly to more than one of the COAG Building Blocks are listed under each chapter.

At the end of the Booklet is a list of Acronyms to explain the abbreviations used. Where the acronyms stand for government agencies or programs, they are, in many cases, accompanied by contact details (email or phone or website address) to enable you to seek further information. This means the Booklet also plays the role of a ‘Directory’ of programs and services.

BADU POPULATION AND HOUSING

Total population:
820 (Census 2006)

Total occupied dwellings:
209 (Census 2006)

UPDATING YOUR BOOKLET

It is planned to review and update your Booklet as part of Integrated Service Delivery planning and implementation processes to be established. Note that when your Booklet is revisited in future years, issues will be reviewed to determine their status (they may have moved from red to orange or green). New issues may be added, and some may be removed. When issues are removed it could be that they have been addressed, or is not possible to deliver services on the ground in your community.
